

Car Scattergories: Disneyland Edition

This easy Disney-themed version of Scattergories is designed for car rides. Instead of rolling a letter die or writing down answers, players work through the alphabet from A to Z. This makes the game easy to manage and allows the driver to participate without needing to write anything down

TO PACK FOR

Preparing the Game:

Print cards and cut them out put them in a brown paper bag (there are 26 cards total)
Find a whiteboard or a sheet of paper and a pen

How to Play

Begin with the letter A.

Draw a category card from the bag and read it aloud.

Say, "1, 2, 3, go!"

Everyone calls out a Disney-related answer at the same time. Each answer must fit the category and begin with the current letter.

Award points, then move to the next letter of the alphabet and draw another category card.

Continue until you have played all 26 letters. The player with the most points wins.

Scoring:

1 point: You give a valid answer that no one else says.

0 points: Another player gives the same answer as you.

2 points: You give a valid two-word answer in which both words begin with the assigned letter, such as Mickey Mouse for the letter M.

0 points: Your answer does not fit the category, is not Disney-related, or begins with the wrong letter.

If players disagree about an answer, the group decides whether it counts.

Helpful Tip:

Use a small whiteboard to keep track of the current letter and each player's score. After drawing a category slip, return it to the bag.
Repeating a category is fine because the assigned letter changes with every round.

Safety note: The driver may call out answers, but another passenger should draw the cards, read the categories, and keep score.
